

The person getting a touch always gets to say if it IS a nice touch or NOT a nice touch, even if the person giving the touch says that it is okay, or that it should be fun. If you get a touch that you do not like, you have the right to say, "no". Look at the pictures below and circle the touches that you think are nice touches and put an X on the picture you think is not a nice touch.

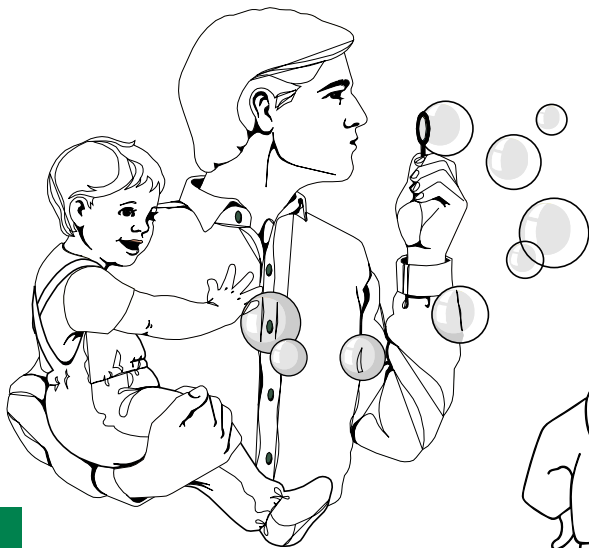

A family holding hands.

A boy sits on his mother's lap to read a story.

A father holding his child.

A bully hitting another student.
